

Benjamin Goldstein

410-245-4897 | Bg2572@columbia.edu

EDUCATION

- University of California, Davis, PhD Candidate in History; Roland Marchand Fellow Expected May 2028
Provisional Thesis Title: Fascist USA: American Nationalist Collaboration with the Axis Powers, 1919-1945
Advisor: Kathryn Olmsted
- Cambridge University, Wolfson College, MPhil in American History Expected June 2023
Thesis title: Isolationism, Anti-internationalism, and Nationalism in American Discourse on Foreign Policy 1898-1945"
Advisor: Prof. Julia Guarneri
- Columbia University, BA in History, 3.97 GPA, Magna Cum Laude, Departmental Honors May 2020
Thesis title: "A Legend Somewhat Larger Than Life:"
Karl H. von Wiegand and the Fall of Hearstian Sensationalist Journalism
Advisor: Prof. Hillary Anne Hallet; Second Reader: Anders Stephanson
- Oxford University, Study Abroad at St. Edmund's Hall, Oxford, U.K. Fall 2018- Spring 2019
70.33 (A equivalent) across six history tutorials, including an independent study
- Free University of Berlin, Germany, Research Fulbright September 2021-June 2022
Conducted archival research on interwar Hearst media empire and fascism in German, Italian archives under Prof. Dr. Arnd Bauerkämper

PEDAGOGY EXPERIENCE

- Academic Coaching: Concord Review and John Locke Fall 2017- Present
- Created curriculum and taught over 300 hundred students in online and in-person camps
 - Collaborate with various elite education companies to tutor high school students
 - Coached 35% of students from John Locke competition bootcamp to shortlist
- Mehta+ Digital Humanities Machine Learning Bootcamp Winter 2021-Summer 2022
- Organized and taught Digital Humanities boot camp for advanced high school students
- English Teaching Assistantship Fulbright, Madrid, Spain December 2021-June 2021
- Designed and implemented English language curriculum for Spanish middle school students.
- The Open Classroom; Hong Kong Summer 2018
- Developed and implemented creative history and reading curriculum for students grades 3-8

RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

- Research Consultant for Hearst Corporation Archive Division Winter 2021-Present
- Researched in over fifty archives across eight countries and five languages
 - Discovering privately held archives of interwar Hearst operatives
 - Translated Spanish-language scholarship on Hearst
- Archival Research Assistantships Fall 2019- Winter 2020
- Conducted research on early 20th-century political, foreign affairs and media history in multiple archives
 - Worked for Profs Julia Guarneri (Cambridge), Deborah Cohen (Northwestern), and Neil Lancot (Deleware)

FELLOWSHIPS - TOTAL CUMULATIVE RESEARCH FUNDING AT APROX. $77,000

Global Scholars Program in Latin America, Columbia University (2017)
Cold War Archives Research Fellowship, Columbia European Institute (2017-2018)
Hoover Institution Archives' Silas Palmer Research Fellowship (2018)
Class of 1939 Fellowship Columbia University (2018, 2019)
FDR Presidential Library Grant-in-Aid (2021)
Hoover Institution Archives Grants (2018, 2022, 2023)
Cambridge History Faculty Sara Norton Grant (2023)

PUBLICATIONS

"The Peril's of Interviewing Hitler," forthcoming at Hoover Digest.

Benjamin Goldstein

410-245-4897 | Bg2572@columbia.edu

“We Don’t Want Dirt and Blood on our Hands”: Race, Economic Nationalism, and Americanism in the anti-Nazi and Japanese Boycotts, 1933-1941’, co-authored with Bradley Hart, out for review at Journal of American History

‘A legend somewhat larger than life’: Karl H. von Wiegand and the trajectory of Hearstian sensationalist journalism’, Historical Research, published July 2021

“Silas Palmer Fellow Researches A Forgotten Foreign Correspondent and Journalistic Ethics In The Third Reich”, Hoover Institution Archives Blog, November 6, 2018.

“Lethal Limits: Ethnoreligious Boundaries in Medieval Christian and Islamic Iberia”, Columbia Undergraduate Journal of History, Volume 2, Issue 2, Spring 2018.

Rebellion, Revolt and Resistance: A Study of Societal, Religious and Ethnic Tension in Early Islamic Iberia”, The Concord Review, Volume 26, Spring 2015.